Financial aid would not have made much difference to me

Joined lots of sports team Was on LPAC No, financial aid wouldn't have made a difference

I was involved in a few department and clubs at LP. I was immensely involved in the music department, specifically the vocal program and really enjoyed my time in class, ensembles, and concerts. I found that it really expanded my social groups and allowed me to meet a variety of incredible people. I was also a member of the Model UN club at LP and ended up being co-head of the school's delegation in my graduating year. I also really enjoyed this experience because it allowed me to develop skills in debating and gave me a larger international outlook on political issues. I also went to a few school events such as costume ball and spring fling. I think I liked spring fling better just because it festered more school spirit. Lastly, I was fortunate enough to be able to participate in my activities regardless of the cost but I would love for there to be money set aside for students who aren't as fortunate. I strongly believe that any student at LP should be able to do whatever they want merely because they are interested in it.

Went on school/department trips, was part of 2 different councils, founded a club
